The Way.

"Where are you going, weary feet,
That have fallen in slumber and flood?"
"I go to find a flower sweet
I left, fresh growing, near a wood.
The winds blow from many a hill,
And hush and rustle wilderness there.
Shall I seek the flower that is still,
Shall I seek the flower that is fair?
Not so; for the flower is still,
Can never find Youth's flower again!"

What the Post Says.

The Louisville Post has the following extended account of the nuptial celebration of the Marchese San Germano and Miss Hoge, which, for the interest of items not already appearing in the reproduced columns of this paper, is reproduced here. The Post says:

The Warren Memorial Presbyterian church in Louisville was the scene of a brilliant wedding on the evening of August 11th, and the edifice was filled with a fashionable audience anxious to witness the marriage of Miss Virginia Randolph Bolling Hoge to the Marchese San Germano, of Rome, Italy.

The church was handsomely decorated in palms, ferns and quantities of oak leaves arranged around the base of the pulpit; the pews reserved for the family and close friends being marked by broad white satin ribbons.

As the Lutheran bridal chorus was playing the bride party entered down the aisle and was led by the ushers, Mr. Holmes Strater and Dr. Charles Garth, followed by Mr. John Grantland Mr. Jack Terry.

Next came the other ushers, Mr. William Hoge, the bride's brother, with Miss Gertrude Belknap, followed by Miss Lucinda Truette and Miss Margaret Hodge, of Denver; then Miss Ethel Newman and Miss Eva Lee Smith.

Miss Mary Hoge, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor, came next, and immediately preceded the bride, who entered with her uncle, Mr. A. J. Randolph Holladay, of Richmond, Va.

They met the groom and his best man, Mr. Harry Strater, and the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Peyton Harrison Hoge, the bride's father.

Miss Hoge's gown was a superb robe of satin duchesse, made princess, with a long court train. Two panels of priceless old rose point lace extended down the front of the gown and around the skirt. The yoke to the corseage was of white tulle, and a bertha of rose point lace was draped at the top. The lace collar at the top of the yoke was recently woven in Italy to correspond with the panels and bertha. The bride's veil was caught with a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried white roses tied with tulle.

Her jewels were a necklace of diamonds and pearls, and a coronet brooch of diamonds in the form of a true lover's knot, and were the gifts of the marchese.

The maid of honor wore a dainty princess gown of white mull, made over pink silk and elaborately trimmed in lace. She wore a short tulle veil caught higher with the strength of pink roses and carried a bunch of pink roses.

The bridesmaids' gowns were of white batiste, elaborately trimmed in lace. They wore broad pink sashes, and their tulle veils were caught by wreaths of pink roses. They carried shower bouquets of pink roses.

The ceremony at the church was followed by a handsome reception at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Peyton H. Hoge.

The entire house was beautifully decorated, a frieze of southern silk being arranged, with American and Italian flags crossed at intervals.

The bride and groom stood in the drawing room to receive congratulations, and pink roses and greenery were used in the decoration of the room.

The bride's table was covered with a beautiful Italian lace cover; in the center a large, flat decoration of pink roses, around which were grouped silver candelsticks holding pink roses. The place cards were of parchment, with the seals of the families of the bride and groom in gold.

The bride's gifts to her maids were gold brooches in the shape of a wishbone, ornamented with pearls.

The groomsmen received gold wishbone brooches, set in pearls.

The bride's traveling gown was of Alice blue cloth, and with it she wore a hat of the same shade. Her jewels were diamonds and sapphires.

The marchese and the marchesa San Germano left at midnight for the East, where they will spend ten days before sailing for Naples. They will go to Arpino, to one of the Marchese's villas, and in the autumn will go to Rome.

The bride is descended from a number of the most aristocratic old families in Virginia and South Carolina, being related to the Harrisons, the Bollings, the Batts, the Holladays, and the Pinkneys. In addition to her beauty, she possesses a fine voice, and the cordial grace and charm of manner that so well qualify her to fill the high position she will occupy in Italian society.

The Marchese San Germano belongs to an old family of Piedmont, the title

THE PRODIGALS.

By AUSTIN DOBSON.

The portrait, autograph and biographical sketch of this author have already appeared in this series.

"Princes!—and you, most valorous
Nobles and barons of all degrees!
Hearken awhile to the prayer of us,
Prodigals driven of destitute!
Nothing we ask of gold or fees;
Harry us not with the hounds, we pray;
Lo! for the sinner's home we seek,
Give us, ah! give us,—but yesterday!"

"Dames most delicate, amorous!
Damosels blithe as the belted bees!
Beggars are we that pray these thus,
Beggars outworn of miseries!
Nothing we ask of the things that please;
Woeary are we, and old, and gray;
Lo,—for we clutch and we clasp your knees,—
Give us, ah! give us,—but yesterday!"

"Damosels, dames, be piteous!"
(But the dames rode fast by the roadway trees.)
"Hear us, O knights magnanimous!"
(But the knights pricked on in their panoplies.)
Nothing they gat of hope or ease,
But only to beat on the breast, and say,—
"Life we drank to the dregs and lees;
Give us, ah! give us,—but yesterday!"

ENVOY.

Youth, take heed to the prayer of these:
Many there be by the dusty way,—
Many that cry to the rocks and seas,
"Give us, ah! give us,—but yesterday!"

having been granted by Victor Amadeo II, first king of Sardinia. On his mother's side he is entitled to use the additional titles of "del Marchese Amati, et del Principo di Francavilla, et Principo di Bisignano, Grande di Spagna."

He has the rights and privileges of a Knight of the Garter, of the Order of St. Michael of the Bath.

His only sister is the Duchessa Caracciolo della Cassa-Massima.

The Misses Hoge were entertained at the home of the duke and duchessa previous to their sailing for America.

Probably no bride in Louisville ever received such handsome gifts as were sent to Miss Hoge. In addition to a most unusual array of silver, she received quantities of beautiful jewels. At Miss Hoge's request the jewels and presents given by the marchese's family were not sent to America.

In addition to the necklace and brooch the marchese gave his affianced wife a plastron of pearls and diamonds and a number of beautiful rings.

Among the handsome of the gifts were a pendant of rubies and diamonds, set in platinum, a collar of amethysts, set in gold, two jeweled bracelets, a gold purse with the top studded in diamonds and sapphires.

Charming Week at Hot.

Social life at Hot Springs during the meeting of the Bar Association was so attractively gay that a coaching party of young people, chaperoned by a charming young matron from Cincinnati, Mrs. Drowery, came over from the Greenbrier White Sulphur to participate in its pleasures.

In the party were Miss Page Aylett Royal, Miss Marie Potts, Mr. John A. Holt, of Newport News. They were given a coaching party and a groom by Miss Ingalls and Mr. Hobson, and Miss Gladys Ingalls had them to tea at the Ingalls cottage.

They returned to the White in time for a private groom that put an appropriate finish on such an enjoyable outing. Mrs. Jack Williams, formerly Miss Julia Harris, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Barton H. Grundy, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harris, and Miss Harris, are among the Richmond visitors at Hot Springs.
